This program will operate and instruct from a Christian religious world view. These instructional, adult and practical learning programs, practical ministry and learning activity, and church and community service furthers the religious, charitable, and educational purposes of the College.

1. The College will provide an academic program leading to an undergraduate degree.

The College will provide regular classroom instruction and an academic program leading to a four-year undergraduate degree as well as other Certificate and academic programs. The programs will provide each student with a foundation of courses of Bible teaching. While majors may be added, the fundamental major and purpose of the College is to provide teaching and instruction in an understanding of the whole of the Holy Scriptures. Elements of practical experience will be integrated alongside traditional classroom study in the core curriculum in order to prepare graduates for the integration of Biblical truth into a growing spiritual life.

The College will slowly add the degree programs as finances permit the hiring of additional faculty and development of academic programs. It will begin offering a foundational degree in Biblical studies and a Bible major, soon followed by degree programs in pastoral studies and Christian education. Each of the programs will include the core Bible curriculum and religious component to facilitate the overall Biblically based educational program.

This activity will initially be approximately 70 percent of the College's activities and resources. It will be funded at a combination of tuition charges to students and contributions from supporters of the College.

2. The College will engage in additional instructional activities.

The College will provide a wide variety of instructional and educational activities normally engaged in by private educational institutions. Its faculty, administration, and students will engage in research, writing, and various types of church and community service. It will also, from time to time, provide special classes, seminars, conferences, publications, and other programs for a broad range of constituent groups and the general public.

This activity will initially be approximately 30 percent of the College's activities and resources. It will be funded at a combination of tuition charges to students and contributions from supporters of the College.

The College's initial programs will be on-site in Phoenix, Arizona, while including video distance learning and other off-site delivery methods. The additional instructional activities will include on-campus activities but also ministry and other activities in local churches, communities, and ministries.

Activities will be carried out by the College's officers, board, faculty, staff, students, and volunteers.
